I have tried all solutions like copying and pasting the table data in excel, importing the Excel data to my query, converting the excel data to CSV, removing the horizontal lines, creating one table for the excel sheet and making all the tables merged into one query but all did not work. I am sure, I am missing something basic and would appreciate any suggestion. A: Easy way to fix this would be to add a WHERE clause to your SELECT statement. "We are counting on new plants for new solutions," said Robert Young, president of the American Seed Trade Association (ASTA), at a press conference Jan. 2. Plant conservationists and seed trade experts from around the world will be at the 2017 ASA Seed Conference to examine and discuss the progress of seed conservation. The session will highlight the major hurdles facing plant conservation and the role seed industries can play in conserving plant genetics. Making a seed prescription can be a daunting task, but the checklist is a good starting point, said Gary Harrison, founder of Kew Herbarium in the U.K. and conference chair. With careful seed testing, an accurate prescriptive checklist can provide the key information on a plant's resistance to pests and diseases
